THINKING OUT LOUD

By H. M. L.

Walked into a grocery Sunday morning, and what d'you know? Was able to buy a loaf of bread in a plain wrappper, with the name Pease's Bakery printed on it. Now there's something. These bakeries down in San Francisco and Sacramento, and their strikes of bakers and divers and all, have encouraged home industry to launch out into the wholesale business. Not only is Pease's taking advantage of a galling situtation, but he is putting out a better loaf than those outside baking firms.

Wonder why he puts out a better loaf? In the first place he does not have to put in a lot of preservatives. People eat his bread right up. It does not have to be conditioned for a trip of 65 to 160 miles and a long wait in various stores. When it goes on the table it is fresh and it stays fresh as long as is necessary. Did you ever notice a bread delivery man from the big cities, when he delivers bread in the little town stores? He puts all the fresh bread back of the stale bread that has been left over, so that ehe customer unless she is on to this trick, picks up a stale loaf in front, and by the time the loaves in the rear are reached, they are stale too. Proper name for these outside bakeries is Wholesale Dispensers of Stale Bread. Think this name should all be capitals.

There are a lot of angles to this matter of bread. Pease and Sons, we hope will continue the good work. A little wholesale bakery, we think, should be a good investment, especially as long as the bread is superior to losves coming in. Of course this outside bread, subject to off and on strikes, is done up in very elaborate and pretty wrappers. Reminds us somehow of the chap, finding out that the gal he has married is beautiful but dumb. These pretty wrappers add to the cost of bread, and after all its the contents in which we are mainly interested.

These outside bakeries who send oversized trucks into our fair city, just naturally block the traffic for the rest of us. They double park in the streets, often in pairs, leaving a one way route between them. Good fellws of course, but just naturally careless of other people's feelings and convenience. We could bear this sort of superiority complex more easily if it were a home industry, though knowing full well that no home industry would wish to put on airs and block the streets.

For some time now people who are a bit choosy about their bread have been beating a path to Pease's Bakery, and that is a sign he makes better bread than comes into town in gaudy covers ith a lot of talk on wrappers about vitamins and other medication. Reminds us of the patent medicine days, that script on the bread wrappers. Cure most everything but the itch for money.

The Chamber of Commerce is here to promote home industry. We don't know just how much the chamber could do to promote a home bakery capable of supplying Nevada City, Grass Valley and way points, but if there is anything the chamber could do, we think this is an opportunity. In view of the worn pavement in front of Pease's Bakery door we doubt if he needs much help. He is able to help himself, if it comes down to it, though a little aid might come in handy.

Generally speaking the profit in a local bakery is usually in the cakes, bear claws, snails, doughnuts, pies, etc. But during this time of stress one has not often been able to buy these things at Pease's, because despite what Marie Antoinette said, people mostly like bread, and bread Pease's turned out, working overtime, to banish a bread famine we might have had. He worked long hours around that busy hot oven of his, and for our part we do hope he made a nice profit on it.

This is no sense an ad for Pease's, but just a refection of what we believe is the popular appreciation of what he is doing for his home town.

POSSE CAPTURES GOLD CUP IN AUBURN PARADE

AUBURN: The newly organized Nevada County Sheriff's Posse came in for a good deal of recognition as they walked, or rather rode off with the gold cup offered as second prize for the best mounted group in the Auburn Gold Rush Days parade. Although only about a dozen riders were able to attend owing to the difficulty of trailing the horses hrough the heavy rains suffered over the week enr, they made a fine showing in their maroon and gray outfits.

The Gold Trail Riders were also represented by several riders and a buggy driven over to Auburn by Ed Granholm. Due to difficulty of trailing the horses over, many who had planned to ride were unable to attend.

Despite intermittent heavy rains over the week end the weather cleared sufficiently for the three day celebration to go off successfully as planned. The celebration got underway Friday evening when Doris Lathrop was crowned queen of the festival by Sam Collins, speaker of the state assembly. Later the queen and her attendants appeared at Helldorado, the replica of an 1849 mining camp entertainment hall.

A torchlight parade was staged by a group of about 100 men and women through the downtown streets.

Saturday was featured by another and larger parade of floats, mounted groups and commercial exhibits. This was followed by a rodeo in the afternoon. Another rodeo was scheduled for Sunday, the third and final day of the celebration.

COUNCIL TABLES ONE-ARMED BANDIT PLAN

NEVADA CITY: Lou Moore, slot mahine operator whose free play machines were excluded from Grass Valley about April 1st, has applied to the city council for the installation of 18 "free play" machines.

Mayor Irvine Seaman stated yesterday that the application was laid on the table. He said he was not for it, in fact he was opposed, since the bartender can always pay off on these so-called amusement machines when anyone wins.

Moore, in making the application, offered to pay the city $500 for what he termed a master contract plus $5 per month tax on each machine while they are operated. Moore suggested, that if necessary the city council enact an ordinance which shall legalize the free play machine. He noted that the county ordinance banning slot machines in unincorporated areas did not apply to incorporated cities.

R. V. Conrad of the Tahoe National Forest and W. C. Perry, member of the Lions Club, were sworn in as members of the Nevada City Park Commission. Members already appointed are Charles Veale, city councilman, and chairman, E. R. Hewston and Fred C. Garrison. Full authority was granted the commission to handle park affairs as they think best.

George C. Hansen, president of the Nevada City Chamber of Commerce, appealed to the city council to clean up the streets. The council agreed that the cleaning needed doing but stated that labor and finances for the work were hard to obtain. However, the council promised it would try.

JUDGE CRITICIZES GRAND JURY AND SUPERVISORS

NEVADA CITY: Judge of the Superior Court James S. Snell, in a half-hour address to the court at the opening of law and motion day, Friday morning attacked the grand jury which he discharged on May 15, charging that the body's actions threatened to "hamstring" the court in its work.

The grand jury had voted 17 to 2 against Snell's request that it recommend to the legislature Nevada County be given the same consideration as other counties in legislation raising the salaries of superior judges.

Judge Snell also critized the Board of Supervisors, saying that in dealings with that group he had "never been able to bat more than zero."

He spoke of a warning to him by the jury foreman that he would not "like what they were going to do." As long as he was in office, he stated, no grand jury would remain in existence under those conditions.

Judge Snell also blamed the former grand jury for its action in critizing District Attorney H. Ward Sheldon in connection with the slot machine situtation. The jury, he said, had accused Sheldon of "misfeasance" of office for neglecting duties not required of him by law.

The actions of the grand jury and board of supervisors, Judge Snell said, placed Nevada County at a serious disdvantage. He would have to seek out-of-county judges, he said, on a basis of personal friendship when it was necessary for a judge other than himself to sit on the superior court bench.

He concluded his address by saying that he would strive to do his duty "irrespective of grand juries and boards of supervisors."

The purpose of his address, Snell stated, was to remove, by a "frank and honest" statement, unfounded rumors and statements that had been going around in the last three weeks. He also discounted what he called local newspaper "inferences" that he had discharged the grand jury because it had refused to cooperate in the mattter of recommending passage of assembly bills raising the salaries of superior court judges.

Judge Snell objected to what he said were "inferences that there was an ulterior motive" behind his dismissal of the grand jury. He compared county government to a three-legged stool. Activities between the three branches must be co-ordinated, he said, to have efficent administration.

The superior judge dwelt at length on the subject of judicial salaries. He receives $7200 per year. The state contributes $5,000 of this and the county, $2000. He related that the superior judges in Butte, Sutter, and Yuba counties, each receive $8500 per year.

The grand juries of Sutter and Yuba counties, he said, have recommended increasing salariese of their superior court judges to $10,000.

"If had no alternative" Judge Snell continued, "but to ask that the board of supervisors recommend to the legislature that this court be given the same consideration as those in other counties should the bills before the legislature be passed."

"If the business of the court is hamstrung" said the judge, "the burden of responsibility is on the grand jury and the Board of Supervisors."

JUST WONDERIN'

I Wonder how to keep in mind
The days we celebrate,
And on the memories they invoke
To profitably meditate;
They come so swiftly to us now,
And then so swiftly go,
How my we keep within our hearts
Their tender after glow?

The months of June and July bring many memorable days which we delight to honor with special ceremonies and the tribute of greatful memories. Mother's day brought to mind the words of Joaquin Miller, who wrote—

"Who has not seen a child waiting for mother to come. Nothing but mother will satisfy it. All the gold, all the good things of earth—a king's praise, the smiles of a queen, diamonds, laces, and lands—all are as nothing compared to one word, one look from her—from Mother; and though plain, haggard from toil, pale from hunger, weak and weary, God bless the mothers, every one!"

Swiftly indeed do the days we cherish come and go; Mother's Day, Poppy Day, Memorial Day, Flag Day—each one with its tender and ineffacable memories, and its thrilling inspirations!

Father's Day is another in our galaxy of treasured days and with reason. I have never been able to seperate Mother's and Father's Days. When I think of one, the other comes into my mind, even as I think of one parent and at the same time think of the other. It seems as though the memories of father, mother and home should be united in one glorious day of days, and that father and mother should walk together through the memory lane of years with tender skies above them and a flowered borderd pathway, leading on through all the golden years.

Kate Smith has suggested the celebration of a grand mother's day; but why? Grand mother is mother too and as such, entitled to all the love, and appreciation due any mother upon Mother's Day.

I should like to suggest a Brotherhood Day, dedicated to a better understanding of those of races and nationalitites other than our own. Upon this day, the unity of the world might be stressed in homes, schools and all other places where peace loving people are gathered together for the proper and constructive observance of the Day. The lessons of tolerance, cooperation and good will might be learned and instead of being told how to win the third world war, we might find a way of avoiding the irreparable loss of the Peace for which our bravest and our best hve contended so valliantly through the turbulent past.

Universal military training may become the order of the day, much time and thought will inevitably be consumed in experimentation with the atomic bomb and other deadly engines of destruction; with a like amount of time devoted to the exploitation of peace—who knows? We might find a way of living which would light the skies of this old world with a never fading rainbow of promise for all mankind.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY NOTES

In justice to the officers of the society and to the members who have assumed committee responsibilities, it must be realized that during the winter months, it has been difficult for many of them to carry on the committee work as they had hoped and planned. Many of the active workers of the society are connected with the public schools of this county, and their time, particularly during the last few weeks, has been fully occupied by the duties incidental to the closing of the school term.

The program adopted at the last annual meeting (printed in this column of June3,) announced July, August and September as a vacation period. While no membership meetings will be held during these three months, the committees will continue to function and having more time to devote to their assignments, the committee men and women plan activities that will make possible the presentation at the next annual meeting of a definite schedule of committee assignments and reports of effective accomplishments.

Brief Review of Committees

The Museum Committee: Chairman, Elmer Stevens.

Readers of the Nugget cannot have failed to realize that althouhg the Museum in the old fire house on Main Street, Nevada City, is yet in its initial stage of development, it has already become an institution well deseving of the support the people of Nevada County and of Nevada County's former residents and many warm friends.

Mr. Stevens and his committee and the other members of the society, who have assisted in the establishment of this museum are to be highly commended for their success in giving to this county an institution which promises to eventually become one of the most interesting and valuable depositories and show places of historical records and relics in the Northern California Counties.

Publications Committee:

For Grass Valley, Chairman, Edmund Kinyon.

For Nevada City, Chairman, Robert Paine.

Mr. Kinyon's contributions to the historical lore of this conty in his column, "THE TRAIL", are, and for many years have been, of outstanding interest and value.

Under Mr. Paine's direction, this column, published weekly in the Nugget, will be devoted largely to human interest stories of events of significance in the history of the county.

Library Committee:

For Nevada City, Chairman, Olive Kallenberger.

For Grass Valley, Chairman, Bernice Glasson.

The Library Committee has made most satisfactoy progress in the compilation of a bibliography with particular reference to books and documents pertaining to, or including mention of Nevada County. The bibliography will be checked with the public libraries at Grass Valley and Nevada City, and with private libraries in these towns.

As an aid to research workers and to the reading public in general, a notation will be made on such cards as lists of books available in any of these libraries, which are included in the bibliography. This bibliography will be cross-indexed in subjects, titles and names of authors. H. P. Davis, as Historical Advisor, has given this committee invaluable assistance.

Historical Sites: Chairman, Herbert Nile.

Under Mr. Nile's direction, a standard marker for sites of historical interest in this county will be provided. It is planned to place such markers on, or indicating the places where stood buildings of historical interest, old roads and trails or where events of significance took place in the early history of this county.

Mr. Nile will appreciate suggestions for markers and information regarding such sites.

Place Names Committee: Chairman, Earl Covey.

Mr. Covey has annouced the presentation of "Gold Days", an historical cavalcade of western Nevada County, written by Elmer Stevens, and directed by Theodore Mathison, for the evening of July 3rd, and 4th. in Grass Valley. H. J. George will direct the choral music, Dorothy Dyke, the dance routines, and a committee from the Historical Society will be appointed to check on the costumes.

MAIN AT MILL

Spike Rose

Bill Fisher a member of the class of 1945 was discharged from the United States Marine Corps last week after serving over two years in that branch.

Fisher's plans call for a short rest and a little summer work before he enters college this fall.

The recent strike at the Idaho and the New Brunswick mines affected nearly everyone in Grass Valley one way or the other inasmuch as it was the chief topic of discussion on every street corner until the miners returned to work.

One of our local citizens commented on the occurance by mentioning that it was possible to tell when the miners return to the mines simply by the disappearance of the large groups of idle men that formed daily in front of several business establishments.

Both of the labor unions involved seemed to play a game of follow the other until the return to work since they developed a fad of holding meetings one after the other to do nothing other than exchange a few words.

However, the return of the miners for the present does not insure permanent settlement but the payroll that was involved will surely strengthen local families and business men.

Standing at the intersection of Mill and Main one seldom stops to realize the rapid growth and progress that this fair city has been making in it's post war era.

However, this rapid turnover has also brought additional problems—especially traffic, for a general concensus exists among local citizens that in the immediate future something will have to be done to ease the increasing traffic situtation that occurs daily around 5:00 p. m. when the average working man and shoppers bring traffic to a crawl along the principle thoroughfare.

A sixty-five foot flag pole, topped with a bronze ball will be standing in the front of the local Elk's Club in a few days since workmen have been engaged in erection for three days.

According to present plans the lofty pole will be erected in the spacious upper lawn.

"It never fails" was the slogan yesterday of school children and their parents as light rains brought forth the "annual" cancellation of the Sunday School Picnic.

If mother nature follows her usual course this will undoubtedly be the last rain of the season unless it should happen to rain for the Independence Day celebration.

DOWN WITH PRICES PROMISED AS FARM MARKET OPENS

"Down with high prices!" will be the slogan at the Nevada County Farm Market during the 1947 season, which opens a special "berry and cherry day" next Tuesday, June 10.

Directors of the Farm Market decided to recommend to all growers that they offer produce at prices consistently below hign retail levels, according to C. S. Porter, chairman of the board. The Market Master, Will Cartwright, was instructed to do all that he could to see that the new price policy is maintained.

Special prices on wholesale quantites to restaurant and hotel keepers will also be offered at the market this year, and plans are being made to publicize the use of Nevada County produce in restaurants buying through the market.

Farm Advisor, William Brooks, reported to the meeting that cherries and berries should be available in quantities for Tuesday's opening, despite the recent cool weather. A full line of seasonal produce, as well as poultry, eggs, and rabbits will also be offered.

Farmers who cannot take time to keep a booth at the Market for the full day are invited to bring in their produce to be sold by the Market Master for them.

The Farm Market, located on the Lake Olympia road just off the highway at Glenbrook, was opened two years ago as a public service to producers and consumers of Nevada County, with the support of the Board of Supervisors, Chambers of Commerce, trade unions, and service clubs of the two cities. It is a non-profit institution, designed to bring fresh local produce to consumers, and afford a means of additional income to Nevada County farmers. The directors anticipate the new price policy will bring even greater patronage during 1947.

ELMER STEVENS WRITES "GOLD DAYS" SCRIPT

GRASS VALLEY: Final arrangements for the presentation of "Gold Days", an historical cavalcade of western Nevada County written by Elmer Stevens for the Frontier Celebration of July 2-4 and 5th were completed at a general meeting presided over by Chairman Earl Covey.

Last minute details and arrangements for casting the historical episodes were made with the following committee heads appointed: field, G. T. Tennis; choral music, H. G. George; square dancing, Dorothy Dyke; historical appointments, Doris Foley; direction, Theodore Mathieson. General Chairman Covey announces that casting of the first episode will get under way this Thursday evening at the High Schol when Director Mathieson will select the cast and start active work on the Gold Discovery in Grass Valley.

Other scenes including Lola Montez, Lotta Crabtree, The Hunger Strike, Amos Delano, Rough and Ready and the Cornish Miner will be cast in the next two weeks. Miners will be used in all scenes with a general cast of over 100 and local residents interested are urged to attend Thursday's practice.

A miniature of Tennessee Field where the pageant will be presented has been constructed, complete with stage, scenery, revolving stage sets, lights, etc. in scale.

H. H. George announces that choral music is well along in practices while Dorothy Dyke promises some fancy square dances between numbers.

The appearance of the Sixth Air Corp Band as announced by Chairman William Stinson and Ray Kronemeyer of the Frontier Committee will add color to the presentation.

This is the first attempt on a large scale of a historical pageant with complete stage sets, lighting, and it is hoped by the committee that full rehearsals and co-operation of the community in the endeavor will be experienced.

Chairman Covey states: "Much co-operation is needed on a big project like this and we invite every one interested in putting this over."

MRS. HELEN ELWELL HEADS CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

BOSTON, Mass: Affirming that God rules the affairs of man, The Christian Science Board of Directors told the annual meeting of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Masachusetts, that neither fear nor animality can give evil power to boast itself over good.

Supporting this challenge, Mrs. Helen Chaffee Elwell, newly elected President of the Mother Church, urged both pulpit and press to unite in a crusade of righteousness. The hour has struck, she indicated, "for the Church to dare to be a David."

To "the harassed employer and the dissatisfied worker" and to nations generally, the Directors and the President of the Church held out the hope of harmony, not as a miracle, but rather as a simple witnessing to the fact that amity springs naturally from the application of spiritual power.

Continuing in this theme, Mrs. Elwell said: "There are those who see little hope for amity among the nations, who even despair of establishing harmony, peace, or even friendliness among the families of the earth. Their world is dark, indeed."

Beyond that, there are many persons who despair of copicng with the unleashed material forces of an atomic age, she pointed out. "Such thinkers," the speaker added, "need to learn the imminence of heaven, the omnipotence, omniscience, and omnipresence of the infinite God, good . . ."

The directors' and the Mother Church President's remarks highlighted one of the largest annual meetings in years, with members of the Church in session from various parts of the world. From California, England, Europe, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa came reports of a growing resurgence in religious activities.

The Christian Science Monitor, the trustees disclosed, attained new circulation peaks in 1946 and gained an increase of 2,500 new advertisers using its columns for a record aggregate of 22,300 advertisers. The paper also instituted the unique and popular practice of completing all front page stories on the front page, the Trustees said.

Installation of new printing presses capable of producing 120,000 forty-page Monitors per hour, and the restoration of color covers to the Magazine section, were added to the Monitor's progress report for the year.
